

Here's How You can Help the Galiano Museum

The Galiano Museum has been operating in summer months from temporary premises over the past few years, working towards a permanent building.

Rezoning and subdivision of a donated piece of land have been completed. Funds are now being raised to construct a building suitable for display and archiving our collections.

The proposed building will have 2,000 sq ft, with a partial basement storage area and an environmentally controlled area. Permanent collections honouring First Nations, pioneer families, and island history will be arranged chronologically. Some area will be available for special exhibits.

Work has begun on site preparation (a well, power pole, septic field...) and construction will start as soon as enough funds are available.

All contributions will be acknowledged and tax receipts issued (over $20). For more information, contact info@galianomuseum.ca
